“ When I was little, I remember Aunt Jeanie's and Uncle Marshall's house being the coolest place to visit because they had plush, carpeted stairs, toy cars and cute dogs. I always felt safe and loved in their home. They're the nostalgic reason I bought my young son a marble labyrinth years ago. The scent of perfume and Nicorette gum will always feel like a hug from Aunt Jeanie. Sometimes it's the smallest sentiments that fill our hearts for a lifetime. Aunt Jeanie was a warrior and protector, and I'm certain that she is still. <3

“ Both of us 4 months apart, age 16, sleeping over at my house and wrapping up in my mother's bedsheets as our evening gowns, using her silver candel holders as our microphones, we became the Supremes or Mama and the Papas. Singing our hearts out once my folks went to bed. Sharing young secrets, and staying friends . Jeannie you will always be a wonderful, kind friend, and in my heart, till we both slumber again.!
